Scholarships

Alberta Innovates – Technology Futures (AITF) (new students only)
AND
Alberta Doctoral Awards for Chinese Students (ADACS) (Chinese students only)

Research must be related to Information and Communication Technology (ICT), Nano, and Omics (Genomics, Proteomics, Metabolomics, Transcriptomics and Regulomics) in and of themselves, or additionally supporting the areas of Health, Bio-industries, or Energy and the Environment. Deadline: Jan. 15 to your Graduate Program Administrator, unless your program has an earlier deadline. (New students applying to AITF can also apply through the Feb. Graduate Award Competition.)

Graduate Award Competition - the Izaak Walton Killam Pre-Doctoral Scholarship, Alberta Innovates -Technology Futures (AITF) awards, Open Doctoral Scholarships, Doctoral and Master’s Special Awards and Bursaries (from $750 to $60,000) are awarded through this competition. Deadline: Feb. 1 unless your program has an earlier deadline.

Want to know more about My GradSkills sponsored professional development events and resources?

- Check out the My GradSkills website
- Like the My GradSkills Facebook page
- Follow @mygradskills on Twitter

Advanced writing or advanced communications skills Graduate-specific seminars for non-native English-speaking graduate students. Starts January 15. See the English for Academic Purposes website.

Health & Public Services Career Fair: Monday, Jan. 28. 10:00am-3:00pm. Jack Simpson Gym.

Eyes High on Research Public Lecture series

Curious about the research that will help us meet the Eyes High goal of becoming one of Canada's top five research universities by 2016? Find out more and register to attend the lectures here.

Next lecture: Friday, Jan. 18 at noon: Sheelagh Carpendale, holder of the E.W.R. Steacie Memorial Fellowship, NSERC/AITF/SMART Industrial Research Chair in Interactive Technologies, and NSERC Canada Research Chair in Information Visualization, and is a Professor in the Faculty of Science.